Sonia has one of the biggest smiles and biggest hearts you can imagine. A natural caregiver, she has a gift for taking care of loved ones around her—and for two decades, she did just that as a stay-at-home mom.

Unfortunately, for Sonia, it wasn't often a happy home, because she lived under the thumb of an abusive, controlling husband. He wouldn't allow her to take classes to improve her English or to finish high school. She didn't have a dime to her own name. And, for the duration of the marriage, she was not permitted to even know about the family's finances or have a say in how the household was run.

She finally worked up the courage to divorce him in 2014 when her children were teenagers, but her troubles were far from over. She got a job, but it wasn't enough to make ends meet. And since she'd never learned financial know-how, she didn't understand how to manage their money and household. Bills piled up quickly, leaving Sonia overwhelmed and terrified.

“When we divorced, I did not have a single clue about the responsibilities and hard work that went into maintaining a house, paying bills, writing checks, and much less about understanding a monthly budget,” she remembers tearfully.

“We were just about to lose the house and become homeless.”

Desperate to keep safe housing for herself and her two children, she visited Home DuPage, and they recommended she apply to Bridge Communities.

“At first, I was scared—but then, I thought that God might be guiding me toward Bridge Communities, and I would have faith,” says Sonia. “When I started talking to Suzanne and Will, they were such nice people, and they made me feel comfortable and secure, and I knew I was in good hands.”

Once Sonia’s family moved into their Bridge apartment, she was connected to Joe, Mary and Pam: her mentors from Immaculate Conception Parish/Daybreak of Elmhurst. Sonia says her mentors were among the biggest keys to her success in the Bridge program.

“My mentors were my angels, and they guided me through such hard times. They gave me crucial support and so many important tools, lessons, and strategies that I will forever take with me to live a successful and fulfilling life,” Sonia says. “They taught me many critical habits and skills, such as organizing a daily and weekly schedule for myself, creating a monthly budget and spending plan, and even learning how credit scores work and how to maintain and build my score.” In fact, Sonia entered Bridge with a credit score of under 600, and through hard work and perseverance, boosted it to a 730 in just two years!

Sonia also needed a boost in her career, but a few things had always held her back: her limited skills in English, and her lack of a high school diploma. And, thanks to her team at Bridge, she overcame both of these challenges by receiving English tutoring and earning her GED. She also attended a Microsoft Office certification class through Bridge, as well as Bridge’s job readiness workshop. “These two experiences not only taught me professional skills, but interpersonal skills as well,” she says. “After taking these two courses, and many mock job interviews, I felt more confident in myself. I developed and practiced new communication skills, and I finally felt that I was able to express myself clearly with other people.” Sonia has since obtained a job she loves in customer service for the DuPage County Health Department, and is proud to provide for her family.

And, since her children were older teens while in the program, they benefited from Bridge in unique ways and gained key skills that would take them into adulthood. “Both of my kids know how to budget, they’re both working and going to school, and they’re very good with money,” Sonia says.

Sonia’s daughter Cassandra graduated from high school while in Bridge, and is in the Surgical Technology program at College of DuPage. Thanks to Bridge supporters like you, she was awarded a Bridge scholarship to help with tuition, too. Cassandra also attended Bridge’s job readiness class, and holds down a part-time job while attending school. Sonia’s son Kevin works part-time and attends Harper College, and is studying to become a civil engineer.

Sonia has a goal of going to college, too—and she wants to become a social worker, so that she can pay it forward and help people in need. And because of your support, she’s on a path to get there.

“Sonia really used her time wisely with us, and I’m very proud of her. She worked full time while...
Dear Friends,

It was just two years ago when we were awarded a grant from a major foundation, funding a multi-year project to launch the formation of a highly professional Program Evaluation function. Among the many questions we wanted to answer were: What are the key factors in our program that point to the best outcomes for our clients, in terms of financial and housing stability after exit? What changes can we make now in our services to improve those outcomes? What lasting impact has the Bridge program had on the homeless families we have served over our first 30 years?

Just over one year ago, Dr. Susan Ryerson-Espino joined our staff to lead these efforts, and lead she has! Today, 158 of the families we have served have completed detailed surveys. Respondents provided insight on their time with Bridge, and updates on their employment, income, and housing. And, 30 of these families participated in oral history interviews to share a rich narrative of their experiences.

There is still a great deal of work ahead to make full sense of what our families have reported, but importantly, the majority of respondents reported employment and housing stability. We also learned that long-term success among alumni was strongly associated with a trusting relationship with at least one mentor. This does not surprise us. Any of you who have seen our videos or heard clients speak at our events will recall that the relationships they developed while in our program were prominent in their message.

To those of you who have had personal touches with our families through your volunteerism and to all those donors who have journeyed alongside Bridge families, we both thank you and report to you that your commitments of time and dollars have been a wise investment. We promise to keep you updated as the evaluation work continues.

Chief Executive Officer

studying and passing her GED, and worked hard to improve her wages,” says Molly Howieson, Sonia’s case manager. “She saved money with a plan to purchase a home, and set an example for her children that education matters and is the key to a secure future.”

Sonia is so grateful to the Bridge supporters, mentors and staff who helped her get to where she is today. “Thanks to the past two and a half years of being in the Bridge program, today I consider myself a strong, valiant and fearless woman who is confident in herself,” says Sonia. “We all deserve a second opportunity in life to move forward. And I would like to extend my thanks to you, from the bottom of my heart, for giving this to me and my family.”

Thank You, State Farm!

We are grateful for our friends at State Farm! In January, the corporation awarded Bridge Communities with a $5,000 grant in support of our transitional housing program. This funding is enough to house a homeless family for more than five months! Thank you so much, State Farm, for helping connect homeless families to a better future and heal from the traumas of homelessness.
Q: How did you first become involved with Bridge Communities?
A: I became involved with Bridge Communities as a tutor three years ago. I used to teach 4th grade, but then decided to stay home with my kids. I had recently begun substitute teaching in Naperville and Plainfield in the elementary schools, and was really enjoying being in the classroom and working with students again. I wanted to find a way to volunteer my time using my skills and after searching online, learned that I could do that through Bridge as a tutor.

Q: What do you do as a tutor?
A: I meet with students individually for one hour a week in the LRC. I am in contact with their teachers, so I can focus specifically on the skills she requests we work on. Occasionally, we go over the student’s homework together, but typically, I use supplemental materials to help support the curriculum through enrichment activities.

Q: What’s your favorite memory as a Bridge tutor?
A: My favorite memory as a tutor is actually not from a tutoring session, but from when I had the opportunity to volunteer with Bridge Communities at the Holiday party, held at the DuPage Children’s Museum this past December. Two of my students were there that night, so I had the chance to see them be silly while interacting with their friends and family. One of my students, Carmen, was very thoughtful and even made a gift for me in the wood-working area! It was nice for us to get the chance to have some fun outside of the traditional tutoring setting.

Q: What’s the best thing about volunteering with Bridge Communities?
A: The best thing about tutoring is seeing the progress the kids make and watching the light bulb go off when they get a concept. I love seeing their confidence grow when they put in the work and their efforts pay off.

Are you a certified teacher interested in tutoring? We’d love to have you as a volunteer! Please contact Mary Slade at 630-403-5098 or mary.slade@bridgecommunities.org.
